400 pounds of dynamite taken from local quarry

Police have expressed concern over the weekend theft of 400 pounds of dynamite from the Bolender's Quarry in Eagle Lake, but Minden OPP still have no suspects or leads in what appears to have been a large scale, professional robbery.

Workers at the Bolender's quarry discovered the theft Monday morning. A spokesman at the quarry says the thieves broke into the office at the site, stole a quantity of money and did considerable damage to the building before entering the explosives magazine and making off with seven and a half cases of stick dynamite.

According to Jim Botting, a foreman at the Eagle Lake quarry, thieves entered the quarry sometime between Friday evening and Monday morning and attempted to enter the explosives magazine from the roof. When their attempts proved unsuccessful they pried a hasp on the office door and rifled the office before "cracking" a safe which contained keys to the magazine.

Botting says the magazine was built to Department of Mines standards and was "pretty well impregnable" without access to keys. "The magazine was built only one year ago," Botting told The Times Monday. "If it had been an older building they could have gotten in on their first attempt," he said. Botting says Ministry officials inspected the building several times during construction, a standard policy to ensure that explosives are kept under adequate security.

Botting also said it was the first heist from the Bolender's Quarry, although he added that the practice has become "fairly common" at big quarries in recent months. Late last month a road construction quarry in the Dundas area was robbed of nearly 30 cases of dynamite. According to Botting, the Department of Mines has tightened standards in response to the rise in magazine break-ins, and is forcing many operations to rebuild to meet government standards.

The value of the explosives has been estimated at $1,000. Botting says the thieves were undoubtedly very experienced. "Somebody knew what they were doing," he explained, adding that the safe was opened without the use of explosives. Botting is not sure whether the circumstances of the crime suggest that the thieves were familiar with the quarry before they moved in.

Provincial Constable Al Bibby is investigating the case. Investigators from the Peterborough Identification unit of the OPP inspected the site Monday, but it is not known whether any significant clues have been uncovered.

Balloon promotion behind schedule

The Sky Slider hot air balloon, the centre of a $16,000 promotion campaign to be launched by the Chamber of Commerce and the balloon owner, Steve Bowskill, has suffered a number of setbacks and has yet to fly over Toronto area malls. The giant balloon was to have flown over 16 Toronto malls promoting Bowskill's Sky Slider ride in Haliburton Village and the Haliburton Highlands with two large banners. And, while the promotion is having trouble getting off the ground in Toronto, Bowskill is running into problems with a summer launch in the Highlands as well.

Bowskill and the Haliburton County Chamber of Commerce pooled resources to raise $16,000 to fly the balloon at 16 Toronto malls, but so far 50 kilometre winds have forced cancellation of the first two scheduled flights.

According to Bowskill, he and his four man crew will make another attempt to fly the craft at the Don Mills mall in the next ten days.

While the weather has been less than co-operative, Bowskill has also been contending with finding a replacement for pilot Denis Casey, who left the Sky Slider crew earlier this year. Bowskill himself is working towards a pilot's licence of his own. The pilot of the Labatt's balloon is available to help with the Chamber campaign.

Despite the delays, Chamber of Commerce president Rhonda Elstone says the balloon scheme is still an effective promotion for the Highlands. "It was hoped that the whole campaign would be finished by the summer," Elstone explains, "but even if we have to hold it over for the fall, it's still a worthwhile venture. It will provide good promotion for winter business."

Elstone says several factors have contributed to the delay, including a long wait for preparation of the 26 foot Haliburton Highlands banner which will hang on the side of the balloon, and a mishap that burned a hole in the skirt of the balloon several months ago. She adds that pledges to fund the campaign have not come in as fast as Chamber directors had hoped, and that the balloon has been slated to fly in Haliburton for most of the summer.

Bowskill's plans for the balloon, meanwhile, are facing problems at home in Haliburton. Dysart council has recently passed a motion prohibiting Bowskill from flying the balloon at the baseball diamond at the foot of his Sky Slider ride, which has been Bowskill's intentions for the balloon since he had it made in September. Bowskill is appealing Dysart's decision, and he is hopeful some compromise will keep his plans aloft.

"Right now councillors feel they shouldn't be supporting private enterprise on municipal property," Bowskill explains, "but we've

Rail line price too high - groups eye trail potential

Negotiations between CN and the municipality of Dysart over the Haliburton/Lindsay rail line are still going on, and while CN is prepared to begin lifting rails, several groups in the county have no shortage of ideas and enthusiasm for the 55 mile track of land.

Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey would certainly like to see the land used for recreation, but he knows that long negotiations stand in the way at present. Fearrey says that CN has priced the six mile right of way that passes through Dysart township at $450,000, and is asking an additional $350,000 for the rails and ties. "There's no way we can even consider that price," Fearrey said in response to CN's figure, which was presented to the municipality Friday. "We'll have to talk CN down to something like ten percent of that before we can consider it seriously," Fearrey says. He adds that Dysart will be asking to meet with CN soon to talk about the price.

Recreational groups, meanwhile, are making moves to express their interest in the land. Sue Bennett, of Minden, area director for the Ontario

Trail Riders Association Inc., says the best approach would be a combined effort by all groups interested in the line. "You can't keep a trail open for just one use," Bennett says. "I think the hikers, the snowmobilers, the trail riders and all the recreation groups who use the trails like these should make their views known as a single voice. She says her group will be writing to government ministries and other recreation groups to seek support for their ideas.

Mrs. Bennett points to the Seguin trail in the Parry Sound area as an example of an abandoned right of way developed for recreational use. Representatives from the Ontario Trail Riders Association worked with workers from the Parry Sound MNR to convert the 37 mile right of way into a horseback riding trail that has enjoyed great popularity since it was completed in 1980. The OTRA consulted mainly on the bridges, and the required renovations necessary to make them safe for horses.

The several bridges on the Haliburton - Lindsay line are slated to be removed by CN, and many observers fear the recreational value of the trail would be seriously diminished as a result.

The Seguin trail is one example at least of a way round the bridges. The Parry Sound MNR bought the land with the railway ties in place but all the bridges removed. Today they have installed some fifty bridges along the 37 miles of trail, a capital investment that, along with grading work, now totals roughly $2,000,000. But Joe Shalla, Parks supervisor with the Parry Sound MNR feels the trail is a success despite the costs, which amount to some $5,000 yearly in maintenance alone. "The trail is used by hikers, snowmobilers, horsebackriders and even cyclists," says Shalla, "and it's in use twelve months of the year. That is really a good investment for park land."

Tom Prentice, president of the Haliburton County Snowmobiler Association, agrees that the trail would be ideal for recreation, and his association is discussing possibilities for the land with a snowmobilers group in Somerville township. "Somerville is interested in the bottom half of the right of way, in Victoria County, and we'd then look after the portion in Haliburton," says Prentice. "We've written a letter to the county and to adjoining townships asking for backing, but I think things are still quite up in the air."

Prentice adds that the snowmobilers trail could be used by riders and hikers much of the year, and that the trail could represent a good investment if developed properly. "Using the land for recreational use would be of good value to the area," Prentice says. "It could bring a lot of snowmobilers into this area from Lindsay, and horseback riders and hikers would be using it the rest of the year as well."

The provincial government is still pondering the right of way, and has asked CN for another six or eight months to decide whether or not to buy the land. If recreation groups can bring a strong voice to bear while the province is deciding, it could bring an exciting recreation project to the county.

It's a tough grind

It could prove to be a tough grind for a Wilberforce area resident following an investigation into a theft by Ontario Provincial Police.

According to the authorities, they were called to investigate a break-in at the Schwandt Lumber Company in Harcourt May 7. Missing in the theft was a bench grinder valued at $105.

In the course of the investigation, Constable Brian Bowers canvassed the nearby neighbourhood to determine if any of the residents had seen anything unusual. No one saw anything out of line, however one resident noted an odd coincidence.

He reported that a friend had just recently sold him a bench grinder.

Constable Bowers went to the house of the seller and subsequently charged Harvey Townsend, 21, of Wilberforce with the theft.

pointed out that they rent the ice arena, which I think amounts to the same thing.

It seems also that Dysart council is feeling considerable pressure over the issue.

"They've been threatened with an injunction if they let us use the ball diamond," he says, adding that the move was undoubtedly made by one of his many "friends" around the county. "We're looking for an alternative site, but otherwise it'll be $30,000 worth of promotion down the drain. It's still an excellent promotion, and if we can't fly it in Haliburton, I don't know who is the loser, ourselves or the village," Bowskill laments.

One sentenced, two on trial in murder case

Nineteen year old Austin Lochhead of Toronto has been sentenced to life imprisonment after being convicted of second degree murder in Lindsay court last week.

Lochhead pled guilty to the murder of twenty-two year old Kirk Wash of Toronto, whose body was found tied to a tree in the Kinmount area by Minden OPP last July. Lochhead will not be eligible for parole for a minimum of ten years.

Two other Toronto men are standing trial in connection with the murder, which police believe occurred on the evening of July 17. David Kernaghan, 21, and Roger Foster, 17, are presently on trial before a judge and jury in Lindsay court.

Before his death, Wash shared an apartment in Toronto with one of the two men standing trial for his murder.

The incident has been investigated by Minden OPP Constable Mike Maher with assistance from Toronto OPP officers.

A 1981 Volkswagen was deemed a total wreck following an accident May 7 at 11 p.m. The mishap took place on County Road 1 in Dysart Township.

According to police, 16 year old Ian Lawrence Pristol was driving the vehicle when the right wheels left the paved portion of the roadway causing the vehicle to spin around, leave the roadway and strike a group of trees. Damage to the car was estimated at $10,000.

Pristol was taken to the Haliburton Red Cross Hospital where he was kept overnight for observations.

Passengers in the car were Ian Brohm, 17, of Gelert and Robert Milburn, 15, of Lochlin.

Pristol has been charged with consuming liquor while a minor.

The matter is being investigated by Constable Brian Dunham.

Keep the connection

Having all but lost its opportunity to remain connected to the Canadian rail network, the county is now faced with the question of what to do with the abandoned rail line. The provincial government has the right of first refusal on the purchase, but has yet to make a decision. Other groups have expressed an interest in the property including various recreational groups and municipalities.

Any decision should take into consideration the fact the rail line now provides a continuous link between Lindsay and Haliburton. This connection should not be allowed to be broken. When the steam engine first chugged along this line years ago, the result was an enhancing of the county's economy. And therein, lies the value of the property as it now exists.

If it cannot be used for trains, the right-of-way can still become a conduit for bringing people (tourists) into the county on snowmobile, foot, motor bike and horseback. And, in doing so, can continue to be of service to the county as it once was.

However, the value of the link as a tourist attraction will be lost totally if the right-of-way is broken anywhere along its 55 miles. Keeping the property intact may be a difficult task as CNR has placed an astronomical price tag on the Dysart portion alone. $450,000 for six miles. The railway is also suggesting that the bridges should be taken out when they lift the rails, further hurting the continuity of the link.

The county may have lost the services of the railroad, but it should not allow the value of the right-of-way to be terminated as well. The county's early pioneers provided considerable support in land and finances to bring the rail line to Haliburton. The present residents of the county should honour that commitment and insist the line remain intact and that CN recognize the contribution of the people of this community in bringing the rail line to the county in the first place.

Suncor: a good buy?

- by John Eakins, M.P.P. -

Did the Davis government pay $300 million too much for Suncor?

This was the subject of a heated debate in the Ontario Legislature, as an analysis of the Suncor purchase by the Toronto "Globe and Mail" suggested that the province had paid at least $300 million and possibly as much as $345 million more than it should have done for 25 per cent of the company's shares.

The analysis is based upon existing conditions at the time of the purchase, and takes no account of subsequent events. As you know, in spite of continued detailed valuation of the company, and in fact the government, for the first time in 100 years, invoked closure last November to end a filibuster debate aimed at obtaining the information.

By piecing together key ingredients, the Globe's analysis indicated that the government placed too high a value on the company's future earnings, did not reduce share value to reflect the fact that less than control of the company was being purchased, they have underrated the extra risk involved in waiting for large-scale profits until 1994 and beyond, and underestimated the impact of an extended world oil glut on the profitability of Suncor's oil sands operation.

David Peterson has charged that Suncor is dipping into its equity to pay shareholders bigger dividends than the company earned in an effort to justify the government's purchase. He noted that Suncor's earnings were reported at two cents a share, but that the company is paying dividends of 20 cents a share for this quarter.

OHIP premiums

If fee increases for doctors are to be covered entirely by OHIP premiums, these will go up about $5 a month for individuals and about $10 for families, according to the Premier, who has not ruled out the possibility that this will be the case. In connection with the doctors' walkouts, the president of the 65,000 member Ontario Public Service Employees Union has claimed that the success of the walkouts or strikes has made a farce of legislation forbidding government and hospital workers to strike.

Agriculture brief

In a brief to the Ontario Cabinet, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture has stated that agriculture is failing fast and the province's efforts to save it have been inadequate. "Participants in a once robust industry now watch as more and more parts of it grow feeble because farmers continue to lose equity.

One of the childhood memories that has followed me through the years is Arbor Day - the memory of spring sunshine and grass tinged with green, of laughing children churning the warm soil amid a clutter of rakes and shovels, of the pride of planting the tree and watching it flourish. My experience was common to those country one-room schools, but in today's more urban society, Arbor Day seems to have fallen by the wayside.

Some far-sighted communities, however, are working to make Arbor Day a central part of springtime again. Bill Granger of the City of North York, for example, is leading the way to a new trend for Arbor Day - bringing the tattered remnants of urban forest back to their natural health. His target this year was a 2 - 3 acre woodland of Driftwood Community Centre. Like many former woodlots in the urban fringe, the mature maple and beech forest at Driftwood had been hard hit by the lowering of water table in surrounding subdivisions, and by efforts to "clean up" the forest by removing all the underbrush. As a result, the older trees were dying, with no younger growth to take its place.

With the enthusiastic help of the Driftwood community, Granger set out to change that. Over 1000 tree seedlings of three carefully selected species were planted beneath the existing trees. On the last Friday of April, the traditional date for Arbor Day, schoolchildren from the local area turned out to help. On Saturday, the adults came, along with more children, to plant a tree for posterity. A local group served free pancakes, with the only price of admission being a pair of dirty hands. All told, about 600 helpers showed up.

The North York experiment seems to be bringing an old idea successfully into modern times. When J. Sterling Morton began Arbor Day in Nebraska in 1872, he hoped to instill a sense of pride in our natural surroundings. That's still a worthy ideal, and we can all hope that North York's success may inspire other communities to once again make Arbor Day a part of their springtime calendar.

Nursing

This is nursing week in Ontario - an opportunity to consider the important contributions nurses make to our communities. One such individual is Corinne Fleming who has served in Haliburton County Red Cross Hospitals for 36 years.

At midnight Corinne Macarthur braves the cold and hurries downstairs to feed another shovelful of coal into the basement furnace. Upstairs the charge nurse is asleep, somehow managing to rest through the continual crying that issues from the six bed nursery in the room next to hers. As the furnace sends another wave of heat through the two storey house, Corinne returns to her 12 hour vigil at the Haliburton Red Cross outpost.

A lot has changed since Corinne Macarthur - now Corinne Fleming - began nursing in Haliburton in 1946. New drugs and equipment have taken much of the labour and considerable anxiety out of nursing and the next stage in the growth of the profession may well be unionization for the 22 nurses in Haliburton county. There is, perhaps, no better spokeswoman for the profession in the county than Corinne Fleming; after thirty-six years nursing in Minden and Haliburton, she has lived and worked through all the changes.

If a nurse's responsibilities are major ones today, they were even more so in Mrs. Fleming's first years. Apart from stoking the coal furnace in the converted house that served as the first Red Cross outpost in Haliburton, Mrs. Fleming and the other two nurses regularly patched rubber gloves, made plaster bandages and even sharpened needles. Mrs. Fleming recalls the technique of achieving a really fine point: "Once you had sharpened a needle, you ran the point up your uniform and if you caught a thread, you knew it had a burr. Then it would be back to the sharpening stone until it was completely smooth," she recalls.

While deliveries formed the bulk of Mrs. Fleming's work in the early forties, tonsilectomies became common in the years that followed; they were performed with the aid of a vacuum that ran off the cold water tap. Given the nature of the equipment, sterilizing required constant attention; says Mrs. Fleming "There was really no rest - we cleaned, cleaned, cleaned, all the time."

New resident

Several years after Mrs. Fleming's arrival from nurses' college in Lindsay, a new nurses' residence was built at the Haliburton outpost; soon nurses no longer lived in and the two twelve hour shifts became three eight hour watches. But the shortage of doctors during the war made work challenging nonetheless. When Mrs. Fleming started in 1946, Dr. Agnes Jamieson was the only doctor serving the two communities. She responded to off-hour calls by jumping in her car and driving to the outpost. Although it sounds too impractical to be efficient, Mrs. Fleming still marvels at the memory of Dr. Jamieson's driving ability. "Dr. Jamieson had it timed pretty well, you could count on her being to the outpost in twenty minutes."

The telephone wasn't always the best though, "I remember once having a lady in labour at the outpost. I called Dr. Jamieson in Minden, but there was no answer, and I had a suspicion that the 'phone was acting up. Finally I had to get the head nurse up while I ran down to the central office on the main street to ring Dr. Jamieson."

The taxi service from Minden brought even more uncertainty to an urgent profession. Mrs. Fleming says expectant mothers usually made it to the hospital, but not always in the door; she recalls more than one baby being delivered in the back seat of the taxi at the outpost doors.

Major changes

Today Red Cross outposts in the province are gradually being taken over by municipal authorities and by existing hospital administrations. Of the thirty-six outposts that once existed in the province, only ten are operated directly by the Red Cross today. Units in Apsley, Bracebridge, Huntsville and Wilberforce have all been closed and the Minden and Haliburton units will soon be turned over to the local authority in association it is expected, with hospitals in Lindsay and Peterborough.

Nurses in Haliburton county are already preparing for the impending change. Nurses at the Haliburton and Minden Red Cross Hospitals have joined the Ontario Nurses' Association and are currently negotiating their first contract. The Red Cross nurses will be part of Local 213 along with nurses at Hyland Crest Senior Citizen's Home, who have belonged to the ONA for three years. Mrs. Fleming describes the move as a matter of political survival: "We joined the union partly to prepare for the impending takeover by Lindsay. We thought that without it we wouldn't have the bargaining power we should have; the union will definitely give us a stronger position in dealing with the administration in Lindsay."

The unionization will mark the final stage in a long history of the Red Cross outposts. First introduced after the devastating Haileybury forest fire in 1922 which brought home the urgent need for medical services in remote areas, the outposts burgeoned, finding a great need for their services in the many casualties of the mining and logging industries and the many babies of the post-war boom. And, if conditions weren't as sophisticated as they are today, a nurse's ingenuity often extended the capacity of the Haliburton outpost far beyond its design. "There never seemed to be enough cribs for all the babies we delivered in those days," Mrs. Fleming recalls. "At times we used laundry baskets and even dresser drawers; it was quite a sight," she chuckles. When the outpost couldn't handle a difficult case, the Eastman's meat delivery truck served as an ambulance to transport patients to Lindsay.

Drugs too have made a big difference in nursing. Before penicillin came to Lindsay in 1945, the treatment for pneumonia consisted of mustard plaster, aspirin and lots of hope, and on the ninth day you either made it or you didn't," Mrs. Fleming remembers. But she feels the advantages of antibiotics are nowadays threatened by over use: "It's getting to the point where a lot of antibiotics aren't working. People take more and more, and they don't give the body a chance to build up its own immunities to disease."

Mrs. Fleming is pleased, however, with recent changes to training programs in the province. The former two year program offered by many institutions has now become three year training province-wide, a move which she says will improve the quality of training. "I'm very pleased to see they're going back to the three year program," she says. "In a two year program you don't get the experience you should, and at college you don't get enough hands-on training."

Emergencies

Despite the new facilities and the better trained staff, though, Mrs. Fleming says that out-patient numbers at the Minden Red Cross Hospital are surprisingly similar to what they were when she joined the hospital in 1956. With the baby boom gone, emergencies now make up the bulk of work done at the hospital; deliveries are handled in Haliburton and serious cases are transferred to larger hospitals in Lindsay, Peterborough and Toronto.

Minden now has two doctors and four serve the two clinics in Haliburton. Both villages have sophisticated ambulance services as well. The Haliburton Red Cross outpost, where Corinne's career began, is now the Kawartha Pine Ridge Public Health Unit, and the Haliburton Red Cross Hospital now provides the services that were once the sole domain of the out post. But throughout the advancements in medicine and the evolution in nursing that has come with it, the basics of the profession are still the same. "There's been some changes, but basically it's still nursing," Corinne muses. "Tender loving care is what it is all about".

Juniors mark Arbour Day

Junior members of the Minden Horticultural Society ignored a steady drizzle Saturday to help celebrate Arbour Day in this community.

The group participated in a tree planting ceremony in front of the Minden Library-Cultural Centre. Haliburton County Warden Ron Gambell was in attendance to break the sod for the new evergreen.

The children then fanned out through the McKayville portion of the community searching for litter and garbage that had been left in winter's wake. The youngsters gathered several bags of refuse, which was taken away to the dump.

Beautify your neighbourhood.

Nancy Robichaud was spotlighted in a solo performance during the concert performance of the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts Choral Society Wednesday evening. The concert was the last of a series of four and ends another successful season for concert organisers. The program for next year has already been set and it will feature, among other, Hagood Hardy. Tickets are on sale at the Rails' End Gallery.

Information seminar planned for May 28

The Haliburton County Information Centre will hold an information seminar on May 28 to explain the services it offers. The meeting is open to residents of the county, and will be held at the PineStone Inn from 10:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Haliburton County Information Centre refers callers and drop-ins to the appropriate resources in the fields of health, education, social services and recreation. The caller is provided with as full a range of choices as possible, and the caller is free to determine his/her course of action. In addition, the centre supplies, within its capabilities, information in the four fields. The service is available to all residents in Haliburton County, and it is a free and confidential service. Cardiff and Dorset area residents may call collect.

Typical inquiries may include:

- I wish to talk to someone about my personal problems. Where can I go for help?
- When is the Rotary Winter Carnival being held?
- I have lost my job. Where can I apply for unemployment benefits?
- My child stutters. Is there anything I can do?

The inquiries will be handled by trained volunteers under the supervision of a single staff member. The centre welcomes volunteers to act as telephone information officers. The training sessions will be held on June 4, 14 and 21. Those interested in volunteering are asked to call the centre at 457-2941.

The centre is administered by Haliburton County Home Support Services. A year ago, a local committee, designed to plan and co-ordinate services for children, identified the need for a central place to dispense information on Haliburton County resources. In response to the committee's findings, Home Support applied and received funds from the federal government to establish such a service.

The speakers at the meeting will explain how to make a referral to the centre and discuss the scope of assistance provided by the centre to residents, service providers and community volunteers. If you plan to attend, the centre would like you to contact them by May 21 at the previously mentioned number.

Over 100 parents, students and teachers were in attendance Wednesday evening at the Minden Library/Cultural Centre to mark the opening of the children's art exhibit.

The work filled the Agnes Jamieson Gallery and the common room with a panorama of colour and styles. Selections were chosen from all classes at Archie Stouffer Elementary School, with ten students being chosen to receive scholarships from the Haliburton School of Fine Arts summer courses.

The special opening included a gymnastic display at the rear of the building. Members of the school's gymnastic club and under the direction of physical education teacher David McKinlay performed routines on the balance beam and tumbling mats. Later, several students presented a number of musical selections.

But the highlight of the evening was the interesting display of art and the presentation of scholarships. Eligible to attend the art class of their choice this summer are the following Archie Stouffer students: Kindergarten - Keith McKelvey; grade one - Jennifer-Murdoch; grade two - Greg Sisson; grade three - Dustin Davis; grade four - Karen Shaw; grade five - Tanya Willison; grade six - Charlena Warder; grade seven - Helga Meyers; grade eight - Melanie Legge; and one extra award to grade four student Karen Cooper.

The show continues until May 29, with a similar show now on display at the Rails' End Gallery in Haliburton.

Curlers mark season's close

The 1981-82 curling season came to a close Saturday evening with the annual Minden Curling Club dinner and dance. The event, held at the rink drew a crowd of over 100.

Curlers and their friends were treated to a great dinner followed by trophy presentations which highlighted the year's curling in the local leagues.

First draw mixed champion rink received the Home Hardware trophy. The foursome included John and Louise Dennys and Bill and Penny Obee. (second photo on the right.)

Winners of the Carnarvon Lumber trophy for a first place finish in the men's league during the first half of the season was the rink of Doug Cross, Shawn Harrison, Shane Blakey and Paul Mayo. Doug and Shawn were on hand to collect the silverware. (third photo from the top.)

The Prentice Roads trophy was presented to the rink of Nancy Garbutt, Lois Titus and Anita Beaver. The fourth place on the rink was filled by various players throughout the season.

The rink of Cheryl Murdoch, Bev Woods, Susan Francis and Virginia Gentle received the Taylor and Sons of Kinmount trophy.

The Victoria Laundry and Cleaners trophy went to Jim Burton, Shawn Harrison, Lorne Coburn and Mike Amyotte.

The club members also surprised their favourite man behind the bar, Herb Gill, with a cake marking his 76th birthday. The long-time supporter of curling in Minden had little trouble snuffing out the candle when the cake was brought out.

Hockey banquet

Hockey.

Probably the farthest thing from anyone's mind now that the warm weather has arrived, but the Minden Minor Hockey Association is planning one more slapshot at the 1981 - 82 season before calling it quits.

The occasion is the annual minor hockey banquet, which has been scheduled for Wednesday, May 19 at the Community Centre.

The banquet is being held for parents, players and officials of all teams involved in the minor hockey program this past year. Awards and crests will be presented to the players.

A guest speaker will address the audience and the election of officers for the 1982 - 83 season will follow.

The dinner is a pot luck effort, so as noted in the minor hockey announcement, please come and bring your favourite dish. The evening gets under way at 6 p.m.

Ontario Tax Grants For Senior Citizens

1982 Instalments of up to $310 Have Been Mailed

Ontario Tax Grants for Seniors is a program designed specifically to help offset municipal and school taxes for Ontario residents 65 and over. The Ontario Ministry of Revenue has just completed the mailing of cheques which comprise the first instalment of the 1982 Property Tax Grant of up to $250 and a new temporary Home Heating Grant of $60. These cheques were mailed on May 10th

Who received it?

- If you're 65 or over and own or rent your home, you're eligible for the Property Tax Grant.
- The 1982 instalment cheque was mailed to all Ontario seniors who received the 1981 Property Tax Grant.
- This is intended to help you pay your property tax or rent for the first part of 1982. In the fall you will automatically receive an application for the balance of your grant.

Who did not receive it?

Basically, if you didn't receive a 1981 Property Tax Grant, you will not have received the May instalment. In particular, seniors should note that:

- If you reside in a nursing home, home for the aged or any property tax-exempt institution, you're not eligible for the Property Tax Grant.
- If you turned 65 after December 31, 1981 (and therefore did not qualify for a grant last year) you also won't have received the May instalment. However, you will receive an application for the entire 1982 grant in the fall.

Temporary Home Heating Grant

This year a temporary Home Heating Grant of \$60 has been added to the Tax Grants Program to help seniors cope with the sudden increases in heating costs. This \$60 is included in your 1982 instalment cheque. For example, if you received a Property Tax Grant of \$480 for 1981, your 1982 instalment amounts to \$300 ($\frac{1}{2}$ of \$480 = \$240 plus \$60).

As I start to write this letter, it is a lovely sunny day, but we need a shower to start to grow the hay. Yes, a good warm shower would start to make them hum - even the frogs are yelling for more rain.

Had services in the chapel Sunday night. Rev. Burgess spoke on Paul - said I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. Mrs. Hudson played for the singing - nice service. Thank you both for coming.

Watched two movies Monday night. I thought they were grand, especially when the saints came marching out of the living woodlands.

Tuesday morning Rev. George Elliott of Minden Anglican church held a real nice communion service in the chapel here. Mrs. Taylor came to play. We thank you both for coming on this lovely May Day. Tuesday night Kathy Owens came with her accordions, and Earl Cooper came and brought along his son. They played some real toe-tapping tunes on guitar and violin, which was really grand. Then Kathy played and we sang some good old hymns. "When the Roll is Called up Yonder," and "Beulah Land".

Most of our friends are back from the south, and more on their way. These lovely sunny days, we kids get out to play.

Doris took a bus load to give us some fresh air - some could walk right onto the bus, others in wheel chairs.

Ted Carr is making flower carts, using clothes pins. It makes him fume and fuss. He says it's getting on his nerves and learning him to cuss.

The ladies from the Gospel church in West Guilford brought in a lovely lunch today and served it so nicely on this nice day in May. Mary Oliver thanked them very nicely. I say "Thanks" some more. I square danced with one of them, back in days of yore.

The bingo was put on Thursday night by Mr. and Mrs. Don Nye, of the Kinsman Club who used to own the Wagon Wheel, and lived right in the hub.

It's good to have Nurse Fairfield back again after surgery. We always like her cute little smile and isn't that what makes life worthwhile.

Millie Wood and Ida Schell have birthdays on Monday the tenth of May. We hope they have a real nice day.

The Windsors and Muriel Hewitt came to our sing-song today. They always arrive home from the south in the early part of May.

Mrs. Coburn and Fred Ballard came this Friday afternoon, Fred to play the music and Grace to call the tunes. She read a humorous story about the "Cookie Jar". Grace just lives across the way, but I think Fred comes by car.

The Special Drill Squad of the Ridley College Cadets Corps, which Major Glynne Lewis helped train, had a most successful inspection last Friday, and the weather co-operated to make it a very beautiful day. Ridley College, which is situated in St. Catharines, has the largest cadet corps of any college in Canada. All the students of the upper and lower school are members of the cadet corps.

Many, many happy returns of the day to Elmer Harrison of Maple Lake who celebrated his 62nd birthday last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lee and baby son, visited with his mother, Mrs. Pearl Lee of Maple Lake this past weekend.

There was a great turnout at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery last Wednesday evening, for the latest Exhibit featuring Children's Art, done by the students from the Archie Stouffer School. As well as all the art pieces on display, the students put on a fine performance of gymnastics, and also played several musical numbers. Refreshments were served at the end of the performance. Minden can be very proud of its youthful, talented artists.

The 100 inch loom used by the Weaver's Group of the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts, which has been installed in the Common Room of the Minden Cultural Centre, is creating a great deal of interest. It is most inspiring to see the ladies weaving their works of art on the tremendous loom. Everyone is cordially invited to view the loom in operation.

Lynn and Wayne Cox, and Carol and Ken Cox visited their brother, Ron Cox in Peterborough over the weekend. Also visiting, were Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Cox on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Goldie Henderson from Roseneath, visited with relatives in town over the weekend.

At the end of the service held at St. Paul's church on Sunday, there was a pleasant surprise for the ladies. Daffodils were distributed by the children in honor of Mother's Day.

Winners of the St. Paul's Parish Card Party for last week, and which incidentally, will be the last party until the Fall, were as follows: Cribbage - Cora Hewitt and Ethel Leigh; Euchre - lone hands - Irene Houghton, Ada Turrall and Pearl Cowan.

The Women's Institute will hold its monthly meeting at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, May 19th in the Common Room at the Minden Cultural Centre, at which time the drawing for the dressed doll will take place.

Mrs. Taylor Kernohan and Mrs. Arnold Coulter spent a few days in Huntsville last week, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jim Graham and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Barkwell.

Friends will be happy to hear that Robert Hughes is making steady progress every day. He is presently convalescing at home and we all wish him a speedy recovery.

I am sorry to report that Mrs. Hugh Shaw, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Knowles of Minden passed away in Winnipeg this past week.

Our congratulations and best wishes to Ralph Johnson of Buttermilk Falls, who graduated this past Saturday as a Heavy Equipment Technician, from Sir Sandford Fleming College in Lindsay.

Phyllis Kennedy was home visiting this past weekend.

There will be no movies shown for adults in the Common Room of the Minden Cultural Centre until fall, but free movies will be shown for children this Friday at 7:15 p.m. These will consist of cartoons and stories.

A welcome home to neighbors from Lutterworth Estates who just returned from Winter vacations in Florida - Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Medley, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Brown, Mr. and Mrs. William Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Day and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lithaland from Haliburton.

Winnifred Bedlington, I am happy to report, is making good progress and hopes to be home from the hospital this week.

Colin Hewitt visited with his mother Joyce last week before starting his new position with the Department of Natural Resources in Sault Ste. Marie. Our congratulations to Colin on his new appointment. Mrs. Roland Findlay of Lindsay had a visit with Joyce Hewitt on Sunday.

Sunday turned out to be a beautiful and sunny day, and I hope everyone enjoyed a wonderful Mother's Day.

Hi! Did all you Mothers have a good day on Sunday? You know the whole bit, breakfast in bed, dinner out and all those nice gifts? Must have been nice.

Our Arbour Day was rather disappointing, with all the rain, there wasn't much of a turnout, but our tree was planted and McKayville was cleaned up and after we went to the arena for cookies and freshie.

I wish to thank all those involved with our efforts: - Warden Ron Gambell, for turning the first sod, Dick and Laura Kirkwood for supervising and helping the Alexander boys clean up and planting the tree and donating some of the cookies, Mrs. Luke for bringing cookies and helping set up the table, Bea Taylor for donating cookies, Jean Marsh and Elizabeth Carrell for their support in our endeavour. I'd also like to thank the Council and Cultural Centre Board for allowing us to have our Arbour Day. Hopefully next year the day will be better and we'll have a larger turnout. And thanks to Jill Hamilton for helping us.

So sorry to hear that Mrs. Mary Oster fell again and fractured her hip. At the moment she is in hospital, but hopefully she'll be up and about again soon. All our best wishes for a speedy recovery, Mary.

Frank, Anne and Lisa Dunsford went to Fenelon Falls for dinner on Sunday for Mother's Day, with Rick, Pam and Jocelyn.

Vera Ward and Lil Porter took a trip over to Bracebridge for the day and had dinner out on their travels.

One of our roads was washed out when the beaver dam let go. The men worked all day getting it back in shape. It's nice to know our roadcrews keep on top of these things.

Our son Clifford, his wife Cheryl and their sons, Derek and Darren, from Orangeville were up on the weekend. They took their camper home with them to get it set up for camping, so you can be sure summer is here.

Hint of the Week
Lawn Furniture - Tubular aluminum outdoor furniture won't pit if you apply paste wax. Repeat every year. And keep old metal furniture from rusting by drilling a few small holes in the seats. Rainwater will drain out. To help prevent moisture damage to cushions, first cover them with plastic, then put the covers on.

It is not in doing what you like, but in liking what you do,

Wednesday, May 12, 1982
that is the secret of happiness.

Kids Korner
Kids, here are some tantalizing tongue twisters.

A tutor who tooted a flute, tried to teach two young tooters to toot. Said the two to the tutor, "Is it harder to toot, or to tutor two tooters to toot?"

Of all the saws I ever saw saw, I never saw a saw that saws as this saw saws.

She says she sews silk shoe soles, so she surely shall save shoes.

A blue blank bankbook blew back of Blank's black bank.

When wicked witches whisk switches, which witch whisks switch swiftest?

Sensible, sensitive Selma Sell seldom sells shellfish.

Peter Prangle, the prickly pear pickler, picked three pecks of prickly Prangle pears from the Prangle pear trees of the pleasant prairies.

Bisquick, kiss quick.

Bye for now. Take it easy. God bless till next time.
